THE IRREFUTABLE ARGUMENT AGAINST DIVORCE

Thought Waves Bringing About World Peace

By ELLA WHEELER WILCOX

At the fourteenth annual meeting of the Lake Mohonk Conference on International Arbitration, held in the parlor of the Lake Mohonk Mountain House, about 300 members were in attendance as the invited guests of Mr. Albert B. Steiner.

Two hundred prominent commercial bodies were represented at the conference. The delegates from these bodies united in the adoption of the following resolution:

Resolved, That the men representing business organizations in various parts of the world are united in the practical recognition that the present war is the greatest cause of international peace, and that the only way to secure a large share of the business of the world is to secure the peace of the world. They agree, further, that the only way to secure the peace of the world is to secure the peace of the mind, and that the only way to secure the peace of the mind is to secure the peace of the world.

Ides Grow Every Year

At first thought one might be inclined to laugh at the idea of such a conference; but might regard it as the small business end of the world's peace movement.

But when we realize that all over the civilized world today are centers of people formed to discuss this topic of arbitration, and that every year the idea grows in strength and makes new converts, the laugh comes into a smile of hope.

Twenty-five years ago the heads of temperance societies united all over the United States. France was the first to initiate the cause of temperance.

The drink question was discussed from every standpoint, and the result of rejecting the evil by law was agreed upon.

Some societies were ridiculed, and their efforts at legislation met with a total defeat. The saloon evil increased. Men and women drank more and more.

Caused Great Temperance Wave

The societies kept on without cessation. And suddenly, during the last year, a great wave of temperance reform swept over the land.

Now we have come such an awakening on the subject of drink in the history of the world as this present era.

It started years and years ago by small and seemingly insignificant societies, composed of a few earnest men and women, who met to talk over ways and means of eradicating the drink evil.

And through their efforts and the efforts of those who followed them, a great wave of temperance reform swept over the land.

Just as the persistent thought currents of small groups of men and women have been united in this powerful temperance movement, so the persistent thought currents of small groups of men and women have been united in this powerful temperance movement.

Keep on talking and thinking peace.

Talking Too Much a Girl's Great Danger

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

HERE is a little poem by Leona W. Shadwin, which I advise you to read. It is a little poem by Leona W. Shadwin, which I advise you to read.

MY PRAYER
Deliver me while I am here below
From that strange being—the human friend.

Protect me while I am here below
From those who would my secret know.
Permit me to be foolish, vain, and
To keep all knowledge to myself.

Allow me to be foolish, vain, and
To keep all knowledge to myself.
In short, prevent my going away
In speech my deadliest enemy.

To keep my tongue locked and still
To tell things, by night or day,
To keep my tongue locked and still
To tell things, by night or day.

Her Tongue Her Worst Enemy
Always, ever, woman talks too much.
Her tongue is her deadliest enemy.
To tell things, by night or day.

To tell things, by night or day,
To keep my tongue locked and still
To tell things, by night or day,
To keep my tongue locked and still.

To tell things, by night or day,
To keep my tongue locked and still
To tell things, by night or day,
To keep my tongue locked and still.

To tell things, by night or day,
To keep my tongue locked and still
To tell things, by night or day,
To keep my tongue locked and still.

To tell things, by night or day,
To keep my tongue locked and still
To tell things, by night or day,
To keep my tongue locked and still.

To tell things, by night or day,
To keep my tongue locked and still
To tell things, by night or day,
To keep my tongue locked and still.

To tell things, by night or day,
To keep my tongue locked and still
To tell things, by night or day,
To keep my tongue locked and still.

To tell things, by night or day,
To keep my tongue locked and still
To tell things, by night or day,
To keep my tongue locked and still.

To tell things, by night or day,
To keep my tongue locked and still
To tell things, by night or day,
To keep my tongue locked and still.

To tell things, by night or day,
To keep my tongue locked and still
To tell things, by night or day,
To keep my tongue locked and still.

To tell things, by night or day,
To keep my tongue locked and still
To tell things, by night or day,
To keep my tongue locked and still.

To tell things, by night or day,
To keep my tongue locked and still
To tell things, by night or day,
To keep my tongue locked and still.

To tell things, by night or day,
To keep my tongue locked and still
To tell things, by night or day,
To keep my tongue locked and still.

To tell things, by night or day,
To keep my tongue locked and still
To tell things, by night or day,
To keep my tongue locked and still.

To tell things, by night or day,
To keep my tongue locked and still
To tell things, by night or day,
To keep my tongue locked and still.

To tell things, by night or day,
To keep my tongue locked and still
To tell things, by night or day,
To keep my tongue locked and still.

To tell things, by night or day,
To keep my tongue locked and still
To tell things, by night or day,
To keep my tongue locked and still.
